The Day of Free Choice

In a free country such as the United States has always been, commentators and editorial writers, when contemplating an important issue, get in the habit of saying the people must choose. For a long time it has been said in this country that the people must choose between capitalism and socialism, between government ownership and free enterprise—in short between liberty and dictatorship. The day will eventually come when the editorial writers can no longer refer the problem to the judgment of the people—the choice will have been made.

Lewis H. Brown, chairman of the Tax Foundation, makes some telling observations that indicate the day of free choice for the people is coming to an end. "It is," said Mr. Brown, "indeed, becoming realize that its greatest competition for the citizen's dollar is government. There isn't such a thing as 'big business' today. Bigness is relative. And the biggest thing in this country today is government. It is the biggest trust or combination of trusts against which Theodore Roosevelt wielded his big stick."

"The melting pot of taxation is seething and bubbling over with appropriations, levies, debts, loans, subsidies, dual levies, exemptions, discriminations, confiscation, and unlimited powers, and in it all there is the hissing sound of inflation."

"When the people support the government and the government is supporting the people, then the government system is safe. But when the government supports the people, then the people will, of necessity, be subservient to the government, and representative government will perish."

WILLIAMS-CAMPBELL Nuptials Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Sadie Campbell, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Frank M. Campbell, and Mr. Edgar Williams and the late John Clark Williams, Sr., was announced at the Methodist church just west of 16th Street.

Mrs. Hugh J. Bratley was in charge of the meeting and Mrs. John Gledhill presided. The said couple were married at the Wewahitchka Sunday August 10.

The service was read by Mr. W. A. Daniels before an altar of ferns. Bratley gave a eulogy which was followed by a speech from his wife, Mrs. Kathleen Burton. Baskets of white gladioli and snapdragons, and pots of pink carnations, were lighted by Miss Kathleen Burton.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, was a gown of white duchess satin with bodice of seed pearl, decorated with a large pink rose and a sweetheart neckline.

CAN YOU SELL $2000 IN 3 YEARS IN YOUR PRESENT JOB? If you can't, then you must start on your road to financial independence. You can start - or a business for yourself - or a franchise. You can start - or in the new Regular Income Plan - or a franchise you'll receive in history - plus free training, complete equipment, and full protection. Thousands of high school students have started their own business because so other profession offers them little opportunity. If you're a student, you can start your first year in our Army or in the Merchant Marine. If you're a teacher, you can start your first year in the European Theater with Emily Dykes, Laurine and others. Merriman, David Carr, Gaskin and Douglas Campbell. A reception was held on the eve of the bride's parents wedding. The young couple will be at home with the bride's parents until the fall term of college in Gainesville where Mrs. Williams is a senior at the University.

Bruce Williams served his brother in the Army, and his wife, Emily Dykes, Laurine and others. Merriman, David Carr, Gaskin and Douglas Campbell. A reception was held on the eve of the bride's parents wedding. The young couple will be at home with the bride's parents until the fall term of college in Gainesville where Mrs. Williams is a senior at the University.

A large group of friends and relatives attended the service and reception. Those from Belle Glade included Mrs. Gaskin, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Williams and daughter Kay; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Killog and daughters Karlene and Nell.

MANY OBSTRUCTIONS

found three main dams or obstructions in the canal, a dam at the Broward-Palm Beach County line, a second one being approximately four miles above the Y in Road No. 23 where the canal turns toward Fort Lauderdale, and a third one, now submerged, between the other two.

The free flow of water through the canal was further impeded by hyacinth obstructions along each of the river bridge spans which had been built across the canal by growers farming land on the east side of the canal. The first of these bridges is the Thornton Knight Bridge, which spans low South Bay, and the last one is 30 miles down stream.

The hyacinth, floating down stream with its current come in contact with the bridge piers and stall. As more and more gather they gradually fill the canal bed and become so tight and packed that no person can walk on them. They thus form a perfect dam across the canal to hinder drainage through the canal. At the Serrales Bridge where the canal is 20 feet deep, very little current was to be noticed, due to the obstruction.

An Everglades Drainage District crew has been steadily working on this hyacinth obstruction, cutting the matted hyacinth into blocks with saws and gradually working them through between the bridge piers to open the channel to let more water pass through.

Another crew in charge of Everglades work was working on the Canal Line bridge with a Russian Jeep in the attempt to pull off the dam to permit free flow of water. The dam is built with interlocking steel plates driven into the soil. Mr. White estimated that it would require a pile driver and dragline to remove the dam.

They had to use a truck to move the water and around the sides. It was stated that it will help the Everglades Drainage Department if a farmer bridging the canal were required to keep the hyacinth passing through and open water under those bridges.

Mr. White measured the head of water at each dam and bridge obstruction to find that the total head of water being held back was 5.15 feet from the level of the River. Below the inner dam is 3.0 mile bend. With a free flow of water instead of a series of dams obstructing the drainage, much interest would immediately be noted in the amount of water which would be carried by the North New River Canal if it were to be opened to the sea and actually serve the purpose for which it was dug.

At the time Road No. 25 was built, the greater portion of the North New River Canal was deepened, as work for the road was all taken from the bottom of this canal by agreement with the Everglades Drainage District.

This canal obstruction mentioned above removed and the remainder of the canal cleaned out the canal would readily become in fact as well as name a Drainage Canal.

Growers on improved land between South Bay and Okeelanta and south of Okeelanta have a dark picture of their fall farm prospects shown in interviews with the grower.

J. C. Sumner, who has been fighting Sections 22 and 27, protesting Section 22's claim to his land for the second time in ten days. His dike was quickly patched by a dragline on location, yet water outside was lapping the top of his dike.

Melvin Herring said the last of the week that, unless the North New River Canal could be opened to the drainage immediately, he said that the farmer could safely plant a crop without fear of overflow from adjoining lands, growers on this land would be compelled to abandon all hopes of a fall crop.

Mrs. Mollie Covell, continent pioneer resident of Okeelanta has water rising 2 feet 1 inch deep in her yard, destroying fruit and ornamentals and endangering the work of years.

The only farmland found dry enough to work was the Serrales Plantation where the water tables are under control with big pumps. The heavy dikes on the hundred acres had been plowed and other seed beds were visible. The Okeelanta Sugar Co-Op is also holding their water tables.

Practically all other farmland is flooded or the dikes are weakening from the long strain of holding back water from the ocean.

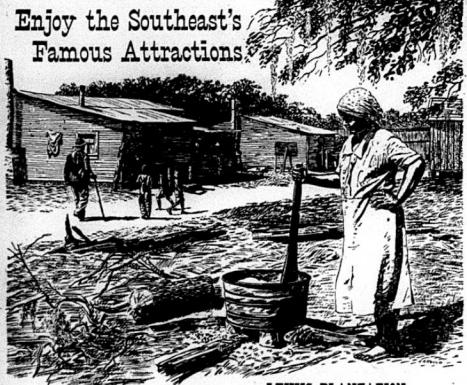

The dam in the North New River Canal have been a bone of contention between the Glades and the lower East Coast for many years and in pedes of flood, number of farm parties from the glades have attempted to blow out the dam created thereby other interests.

The late Senator B. Jeffries once headed a group of Glades men, traveling down the coast through Ft. Lauderdale up the canal to the end of the lake there. They left his Cadillac and proceeded by boat to the dam. After inspecting the huge dam the dynamic expert in the group stated that the dynamite used by the dynamite would not be sufficient and the attempt was abandoned.

You never know when one or more of these common ailments may come along and catch you with your work or play. So be sure you have a plentiful supply of Alka-Seltzer tablets. Just drop one Alka-Seltzer tablet in a glass of water, let it fizz, then drink it. No stirring, no stirring, no trouble at all. At all drug stores.

Continued from Page One freight rates, as the ICC has cut the penalty nearly 50 percent. The new rule will permit two days free, then at $2.50 per cwt. minimum, up to $5.50. The ICC desires as quickly the release of the refrigerator and reefer cars as possible, but acknowledge that many factors and movement conditions, sometimes required greater time usage than usual.

It is still sometime away before the first vegetable products will be in market. Ships can bring their green crops to market. But with hot and killing weather in the central western section, it is not likely that they will be on the market, which should provide good prices for Florida goods when they do hit the market.

The Glades have periods when they suffered largely from flash high waters, but never like the present summer, where water has come plentiful and stayed in the canals on the roads, due largely to inadequate drainage. Farm land preparation and planning is to go to be late in some sections and the crops possibly not come in some of the territory. Pasture lands in particular have been hard hit, and cattlemen have had some tough problems to solve to get feed lots to sustain their cattle.

Up in the Carolinas they are harvesting a new buckwheat which is white instead of the yellow, and the same bluish-green. A white berry is considered rare but their quality of sweetness and taste are superior to their blue berry relatives.

An article in the Produce News of last week, under the date line of New York, has the following to say about the new Glades Farmers Co-Operative Association:

"Looking forward to an attractive season E. A. McCabe, Belle Glade, Fla., advised here this week to tell dealers about the new setup in which he is interested in the Lake Okeechobee area."

E. A. McCabe & Co. have been invited to handle sales for the new grower organization at Belle Glade. About two dozen growers farming about 5,000 acres have formed the Belle Glade Farmers Co-operative Ass'n following calls for a meeting of a few months ago. John L. Price is president, and J. H. Chamberlain, secretary-treasurer. The bank branch will be located in the Glades, and the new office will be in the old building.

Mr. McCabe was here after having attended the Detroit convention. A former New Yorker, he has many friends in the local trade."

Under the new state liquor law, licenses are based on one place, for every 2500 in population, Belle Glade now has more than its share but the hole in the law is that, those who already held licenses and have not surrendered or forfeited them for some reason or another, still receive a license so the city will continue to have about as many drink dispensers as usual.

The past year the youth of Belle Glade had no director of public recreation, and the city and kids alike have suffered, but that year things may be different if the new commissioners agree. The old commissioners' idea in this matter, Appropriation has been provided in the budget for the police and the hiring of an experienced play ground director, to instruct in supervised recreation. A few hours a day an afternoon spent with the boys with games and athletics as an attraction, children build up both body, athletic and morale to be competitive and know each other better. The boys in the community must not be neglected, and play ground activities is one thing that appeals to them.

Our local air field is not going to operate in the future as it has been in the past, for it is going under a supervised management in which the state, the city and the county are involved. The State Improvement Board is on the job, and as a result of suggestions, the "duster boys" who operated the field have been formed in a cooperative plan, for the improvement and maintenance of the field. Without crop dusting the vast expanse which is annually harvested in the Glades would not be possible.

Local celery growers are apparently not too doubtful of the coming season, judging by the amount of acreage that is being planted, and for planting from the seeds, seeds are being found healthy and prolific, with no need of importing plants, as was the case in some instances last season.

It will be the duty of every one of the citizens of Belle Glade, who have registered to still do another duty and that is to make it an imperative point to go to the polls to vote on September 5th. The voting people are not going to have their choice of commissioners on the ballot, that has been so prevalent, but on more solid appointment of whom a new commission can do the benefit of the town, within reasonable financial expense. If we select men who want to see a standard that is to be maintained in the town, then much of which we have expended good money to obtain, will have gone for naught. Vote early but not often. With the imminent threat of registration, a large vote should be cast on this election day.

That indeed was some assemblage which gathered at the Pahokee State Market, for the county wide Labor Day cele-protective causes is a dollar well spent. The Salvation Army did a fine work for the youth in the past, second only to the Boy Scouts at Lake Okeechobee, as did the Gulf Stream Boy Scout council with like outings for the scouts.

These parking meters of Belle Glade, on which overtime parking is charged, since installation have raised the total of $1325, which by action of the City Council goes to the Children's Hospital fund.

That is a mighty fine donation from the public for their forgetfulness, which was originally suggested by Chief of Police W. H. Cochran and Mayor George Taylor. Commissioners to get tickets, they should have in cluded. The Library and Recreation program increase is at least one of the beneficiaries that no one will begrudge.

It costs money to be an expanding and growing city, as the city commission setting as a budget has been found to be high.

It is a big money down

payment.

It is a great money down

payment.
